colder Wednesday; Thursday fair.
Missouri—Snow, followed by clearing Wednesday; colder in southern portion; Thursday fair.

Amarillo, Tex., Jan. 4.—There was a sudden change in the temperature shortly after noon when the mercury shot up to 40 under a cloudless sky, following the storm of snow and sleet last night. Almost without warning the skies became leaden and snow resembling in intensity a heavy summer shower, gave within an almost incredible time an addition of an inch of snow.

The forecast is for warmer weather with snow or rain.

Oil Fields Suffer.

Tulsa, Okla., Jan. 4.—Northwestern Oklahoma is covered tonight with a coat of sleet following the storm last night and this morning. Wagon and foot traffic is dangerous. Several slight accidents have occurred. One girl suffered a broken arm here today. The oil fields have practically shut down because of frozen water, gas and oil pipes. Trains are behind time and street car service is crippled.
It is getting colder.

Frisco Trains Delayed.

Enid, Okla., Jan. 4.—Snow has fallen continually all day and covered the entire city to a depth of about seven inches on the level. Street car service is badly impaired. The Frisco is running several hours behind the schedule. The temperature fell to 25 above in the evening.

Collar Bone Broken.

Bartlesville, Okla., Jan. 4.—Sleet, rain and snow fell at intervals during the day. Warmer weather prevails this evening. The thermometer has not registered a lower mark than 18 degrees above zero. John Taylor, an oil man, had his collar bone broken today by falling on the ice.

Cattle Not Suffering.

Lawhaska, Okla., Jan. 4.—Cattle are suffering in the Osage country account of the cold weather which prevailed over this section for last two days. Rain, snow and fell all over Osage county today and the day closed with the temperature rising.

heavy sleet fell this morning and some rain this afternoon. No suffering among live stock is reported.

Sleigh Riding in Vogue.

Medford, Okla., Jan. 4.—Snow fell over northern Oklahoma last night and today. Sleigh riding has been in vogue today. No suffering is reported.

School Closes.

Shawnee, Okla., Jan. 4.—The Bell school was closed today on account of the epidemic of smallpox that started several days ago. Miss Hardin, a teacher in the school, is afflicted with the disease and several of the pupils.

Rain at Ardmore.

Ardmore, Okla., Jan. 4.—Rain has fallen here all day and ice remained on the ground. The minimum temperature here this morning was 24 at 7 o'clock; tonight it is 30. Farmers are complaining of too much moisture which is interfering with early plowing.

EX-BANKER MORSE

IS CONVICT NO. 2814

TAILORED SUIT IS DISCARDED
FOR STRIPES

Eats First Meal in Cell Because Had Not Been Vaccinated—Will Work as Tailor.

Atlanta, Ga., Jan. 5.—Charles Wyman Morse, former "ice king" and millionaire banker, began his fifteen year sentence in the Atlanta federal prison for violation of the national banking laws.

Morse is registered as convict No.
2814, and tonight occupies a steel cell not in the least different from those to which are assigned the several hundred other prisoners. His an-nunciate tailored garments gave way to a regulation suit of stripes, nor did the distinguished prisoner escape the Bertillon expert, the prison photographer the regulation bath or the barber.

Morse arrived from New York at 10:45 a. m., in charge of two deputy marshals and accompanied by his
W. P. Reid, of Boston. He made no protest when the cameras of the newspaper men were trained upon him. He was placed in a cab and driven to the prison.

Because he had not been vaccinated, Morse was not permitted to eat in the big dining room with his fellow convicts and his first meal was served in his cell. The prisoner turned over to the prison clerk $218 in currency. He was assigned to "class 1" which entitles him to the privilege of seeing relatives or friends for thirty minutes of each two weeks of his confinement.

Most probably will be assigned to the tailor shop.

Mrs. Morse, formerly the wife of an Atlanta hotel proprietor, is expected from New York tomorrow. After a conference with her husband she will return to New York and begin trying to secure a pardon from President Taft.

Riverside, Cal., Jan. 3.—This city

munication with the outside world today as the result of floods and washouts. Hundreds of acres of vegetable gardens are inundated.

HON. JAMES R. YOUNG.

Ada Postmaster for Ten Years Voluntarily Retires—He and Teddy Roosevelt Only Republicans in History That Ever Voluntarily Let Go.

Hon. James R. Young for ten years
the efficient and acceptable postmaster of the city of Ada will voluntarily on the first day of April retire from the postmastership.

When the fact is considered that during the ten years of Mr. Young's encomium of the Ada postoffice, that there has never been an instance of a complaint of the manner of the conduct of the office and that there has never been a semblance of an undertaking by any other citizen to retire him from the office, and that now he is refusing to apply for reappointment, there could be no more emphatic evidence of the efficiency with which the business of the postoffice has been directed and the political shrewdness and well balanced citizenship qualifications of its appointee.

Mr. Young deserves the rest which
city and a 280 acre farm close by,
from which proceeds he will be able

JUDGE U. G. WINN.

Judge Winn, who is one of the two applicants for the Ada postoffice is a republican of state-wide recognition, having been preceding statehood, a prominent statehood advocate and since a member of the State Central committee from Pontotoc county.
Judge Winn was U. S. Commissioner for this district until statehood and the administration of his office was generally satisfactory. For the sake of his party he went to the slaugh-

at the last election. It is thought that Judge Winn would be an attractive citizen in any community and a capable officer in any position. He is a substantial citizen of this city, has sense and tact, and it really looks as if the two eminent, local leading republican contestants for the Ada postoffice might have Billy Taft somewhat worried before his John Henry is finally affixed to

HON. JNO. W. BEARD

Ada Pioneer, Prominent Citizen and Republican.

Hon. John W. Beard, who is an applicant for the appointment to the postmastership of the Ada office is a leader among the progressive and responsible citizens of the city and worthy and qualified for the position to which he aspires.

Mr. Beard is an Ada pioneer, being interested in the original Ada townsite. He has been a town build-

city who has been more public spirited and contributed more to the progress of this splendid little city.
It is difficult for a democrat to es-

publican, especially in the apparent entangled republican organization in Oklahoma, but it is known that Mr.
Beard has always been a consistent advocate of the principles of his party and an ardent supporter of its candidate and representatives.

less closely and satisfactorily associated with Mr. Beard in the realty business for several years could not feel other than kindly interest in his aspirations, but Judge Winn is likewise the News man's personal friend, and we are again glad that this is a democrat.

LIVING SUBJECT.

Hulls Resolution.

Washington, Jan. 4.—In consonance with a resolution introduced today by Representative Hull, asking for a government investigation of the increased cost of living in the United States, Secretary Wilson of the department of agriculture has ordered a sweeping inquiry.

"I realize," said Secretary Wilson,
"that we have undertaken a big contract, but we can carry it out. We have the man and we have the money to paraphrase a famous statement, and the work will be done thoroughly. Much of the work will be done by inspectors of the bureau of animal industry, but other divisions of
to assist.

most complicated. In investigating it with regard to any particular locality three facts are to be considered—first, the price paid by the wholesale merchants to the producers; second,
the cost of transportation from the place of production; and third, the difference between the wholesale and retail prices. The location of the place of production and consequently the question of transportation, play a large part in the general results."

Five Held at Dallas on Charge of Assaulting Operator.

Dallas, Tex., Jan. 5.—B. F. Carter, Dan Todd, A. Yoeman and Charles Warner, all M. K. & T. freight train men, were arrested here today on advices from Greenville. It is alleged the men enticed Brady Lee, night dispatcher at Greenville, from the train yards there, seriously injuring him.
Greenville officers will come for

Says Appropriations Could Be Reduced $100,000,000 and that Taft Is Poor Manager Indeed
with His Salary.

Washington, Jan. 4.—Had the President's daughter and son, Miss Helen and Robert Taft, remained in the House gallery a few minutes today they would have heard their father roundly criticised by Representative Adair of Indiana for alleged extravagances of the Executive Department.
Mr. Adair said the President's salary should not have been increased to $75,000 a year, adding that a President with practically no expense who could not save from an income of
in ease the balance of his life, in
business capacity to direct the af-

000 for vehicles, stables, etc., Mr.
Adair argued this was $30,000 too much and he also asserted that one-third of the $9,000 allowance for care of the White House green houses would furnish the Presidential with all the flowers he can possibly use.

Without depriving the President of any of the comforts or luxuries which properly belong to the White House, he said the appropriations for the

at least $75,000 per year.

Mr. Adair declared that appropriations for all purposes could be reduced at least $100,000,000 a year without impairing any of the Government service.

"Extravagance and waste permeate
everything through the Federal service," he said, amid Democratic applause, "and Congress has been voting away the people's money until we have reached a point where the revenues are not sufficient to meet

Opposing the proposal of pensioning Government employees, he declared the departments in Washington were crowded with incompetents
and if they failed to lay aside a part of their earnings for a rainy day the fault was due to no fault of the government detective service to the government. Characterizing the Government detective service as the "dumping ground for those who had ren-
outside of the benefits derived from
inspectors, the $1,726,000 appropriated for that service last year had been wasted.

There is more extravagance in the army and navy than in any other department of our Government, said Mr.
Adair. It is enough to bankrupt any Government in the world to spend
tenance of its army and navy, and that, too, in time of peace.

Copenhagen, Jan. 5.—Walter Lons-
dale, Dr. Frederick A. Cook's secretary, announced today he had received a letter from Dr. Cook, but declined to give the explorer's address. Mr. Lonsdale said he would inform Dr. Cook of the university's decision, which he was convinced Dr.

TALK OF THE DAY.

Negotiations are in progress which,
if carried to a successful issue, will enrich the Musee de l'Armee in Paris with a historic relic of melancholy associations. The museum wishes to exchange with the institution at Gis-ors some exhibit, and in return to receive the purse of Marshal Ney.
It is a little purse of the kind in vogue at the time and much later
of knitted silk, and was worked by the marechale for her famous husband, who was shot as a traitor after the hostilities of 1815. Madeleine Morrin, the marechale's maid, was deputed after the execution to perform the necessary offices, and found the purse
in the marshal's pocket. At the death of Madeleine in 1852, it passed into the possession of an official at Gis-ors, and he presented it to the local museum. It is now thought the purse
Paris.—London Globe.

"Galveston continues to surpass every seaport in the United States save New York alone in the total value of the products exported from its docks," said Thomas W. Alkin of the Oleander City, at the City Hotel. "One day last week five big ocean liners cleared from Galveston carrying cotton to European markets. Two of
aggregate value of the cargoes was
showing for a town of its size, and

MENT OFFICER.

NOBODY CAN ACT AS AGENT

All Prosecutions Will Have to Be Made by Federal Officers, but Caldwell Would Have State
Work With Them.

Guthrie, Ok., Jan. 5.—Fred S. Caldwell, State Enforcement Attorney, has given Governor Haskell a statement of the effect of the new federal regulation applying to shipments of liquor into prohibition districts. The law, which was enacted by the last congress, became effective Jan. 1 and in brief, requires that interstate
carriers, banks, etc., from acting as
the price of the goods, and requires
80 and 90 per cent of the liquor shipments coming to Oklahoma, it is declared, and completely eliminates the shipment of "John Doe" packages, which the enforcement officers considerable trouble.

torney Caldwell to Gov. Haskell,
"prohibits every person whomsoever, whether railroad company, express company or other common carrier, or a bank, banker, collecting
manner acting as the agent of the buyer or seller of any spirituous, vinous, malt, fermented or intoxicating liquor of any kind which is to be-
been, the subject of interstate commerce, for the purpose of buying or selling or completing the sale of
transportation and delivery of the same. In other words, not only all C. O. D. shipments, strictly so called,
are prohibited, but the broad terms of the statutes likewise strike down the practice of sending liquor into prohibition states by the shipping order, or order notify method, pursuant to which methods the liquor dealer sends the original bill of lad-ing, with draft attached, to some bank or other collecting agency, and the
take the shipment up, first calls upon such bank or other collecting agency pays the draft and takes up the bill of lading, which he presents to the interstate carrier and receives delivery of the shipment of liquor."

"There can be no question but that
when it collects the draft and deliv-
as the agent of the seller of the liquor for the purpose of completing the sale by collecting the purchase price, and therefore such act
of agency clearly falls within the inhibition of the statute. The penalty for a violation of this section
than $5,000. I take it that no bank in the State of Oklahoma will run the risk of subjecting itself to such a heavy penalty for the sake of act-
liquor dealers. Particularly is this true when it is remembered that each
and separate offense."

Attorney Caldwell states that all prosecutions will have to be made by the federal officers, but suggests that the state work in conjunction with the federal government, and admonishes officers who know of such violations of the law to report them to the United States District Attorney, and to the State Enforcing Department. The value of the new law to Oklahoma is given by Attorney Caldwell as follows:

"In order to make a case against one charged with such illegal possession of intoxicating liquor, it is only necessary to prove two things, to-wit, the possession of the liquor and an intention of violating any provision of the statute. When these two things are shown to occur the guilt of the defendant is established absolutely. Now, under this act of congress, the prosecuting attorneys
prove the fact of possession of such liquors by resorting to the records of the interstate carriers. These records have, heretofore, been of little practical value, owing to the fact that fictitious names were used and the shipments were not plainly marked as to the nature or quantity of the contents of the packages. The

show the name of the consignee, the nature and the quantity of the contents thereof. The records of the interstate carrier will also be very strong, and in many instances conclusive, circumstantial evidence as to the criminal intent of the defendant, for the reason that they must now show each shipment, delivery and the nature and quantity thereof, and from this it will not be difficult for any
whisky peddler the liquor could not have been intended for him in good faith for his own personal or family
use. In addition to this, if the defendant has paid the special tax required by the United States of liquor dealers, then a certified copy of record from the office of the Internal revenue collector, at Leavenworth, Kan., is in itself sufficient to prove prima facie the necessary criminal intent.

act of congress it is my opinion that if two things were done the prohibition law can be very effectively enforced in all parts of the state, except, possibly, the border counties.
that the federal government keep faith with the states and rigidly enforce the provisions of said act; second, that the prosecuting attorneys
state keep themselves fully advised
and delivery of liquor shipments."

Recommendation May Be Made to Appropriate for Lighting of Statehouse.

Guthrie, Ok., Jan. 4.—When Gov.
Haskell issues his call for a special session of the legislature, which will probably be in a few days, it is indicated that the chief subjects to be
taxing system and regulation of the county officers' fees on a uniform basis. It is now thought that the session will be called for Jan. 20.

levies either by reducing the rate on the dollar or establishing a maximum amount of money a given district can collect, and further limiting the issuance of county, district and city bonds.

Under the tax law effective last summer, payments are due in one sum Oct. 15 of each year, and are delinquent if not paid by Jan. 1 following.

until Feb. 1. Those advocating revision of the taxing system believe the session should be called in time to allow an extension of the date of payment, as was done one year ago, and a law enacted that will enable the state to reduce levies where found to be beyond the needs of a district, county or city. It is understood such a course will be recommended by the governor.

With this question comes the idea of returning to the two-payment plan enforced by Oklahoma Territory, to be six months apart and with no more than thirty days before becoming subject to penalty.

Suggestion as to Fees.

In readjusting county officers' fees
on a uniform basis, W. C. Henderson of Comanche County has offered the suggestion of making neither the state nor the county responsible for fees and costs in misdemeanor cases, which he contends is the heaviest

Senator Beeler of McIntosh county, leader of the republican minority of that body, advocates abolishing
the township form of government.

Probably a recommendation will be made for an additional appropriation for lighting the statehouse and con-
exhausted Dec. 31. The last legislature only allowed $2,000 for both houses during two years, one-half the sum asked.

Among the callers today were
Strain of Nowata, Smith of Duncan, Russell of Muskogee and Beeler of Checotah.

Had a Roll of Greenbacks Big Enough to Choke a Cow When He Arrived Here.

A railroad switchman employed by the Frisco at Francis was taken in charge by an officer as he alighted from a train here this morning and questioned about a board bill he was alleged to have skipped at that place. The Francis officers telephoned the local sheriff's office this morning that the fellow left town without settling for his rations and the hotel proprietor saw—in his mind—the board bill running away with the railroader. A description was given the local officers and a man was sent to the depot to welcome the switchman.

When told that he was wanted for an unpaid hotel bill of $11.50, he promptly paid that amount to the deputy. He had such a huge roll of the long green in his pocket that it required several seconds to get the spondulix out. Must have been more than two hundred dollars in that pants pocket, and that wasn't all he had—so he said—as the St. L. & S. F. railroad company was indebted to him to the tune of $120.

After he settled his feed bill he stated he had no intention of "beating" or trying to beat it. Said he needed some heavier raiment for this sort of weather and saw no particular offense in coming to Ada to get it. He departed then, saying he was going back to Francis to resume work. He didn't say, however, whether he was going to live at the same hotel.

banking laws.

eral hundred other prisoners. His immaculate tailored garments gave way
the Berthollet expert, the prison pho-
barber.

driven to the prison.

confinement.

the tailor shop.
Mrs. Morse, formerly the wife of
President Taft.

HON. JAMES R. YOUNG.

untarily Let Go.

Hon. James R. Young for ten years
the postmastership.
encumbency of the Ada postoffice, that there has never been an instance

undertaking by any other citizen to retire him from the office, and
appointee.

Mr. Young deserves the rest which

and a capable officer in any position.
He is a substantial citizen of this city, has sense and tact, and he

HON. JOHN W. BEARD

Republican.

Hon. John W. Beard, who is an ap-
to which he aspires.

Mr. Beard is an Ada pioneer, be-

Oklahoma, but it is known that Mr.
candidate and representatives.
democrat.

ed cost of living in the United States,
ing inquiry.

"that we have undertaken a big object, but we can carry it out. We
to paraphrase a famous statement,
by inspectors of the bureau of animal industry, but other divisions of

KATT TRAINMEN ARRESTED.

saulting Operator.

Dallas, Tex., Jan. 5.—B. F. Carter, Dan Todd, A. Yeoman and Charles
vice from Greenville. It is alleged

Washington, Jan. 4.—Had the Pres-
gances of the Executive Department.
Mr. Adair said the President's salary

000 for vehicles, stables, etc., Mr.
houses would furnish the President with all the flowers he can possibly use.

properly belong to the White House,
at least $75,000 per year.

Mr. Adair declared that appropria-
ernment service.

wasted.

partment of our Government, said Mr.
tenance of its army and navy, and

dale, Dr. Frederick A. Cook's secretary, announced today he had re-
cision, which he was convinced Dr.

IT'S PEACE ESTRADA WANTS

MESSAGE BY MADRIZ MAKES MANAGUA HAPPY—CONFERENCE SOON.

THE U. S. NOT IN SYMPATHY

Much Dissatisfaction Felt at Washington With New President.—Yes, says to Stay at Nicaragua Ports.

Managua, Jan. 6.—Managua is jubilant tonight over the prospect of early peace. President Madriz made public this evening a telegram which he had received from General Fornos Diaz, one of the leaders in General Estrada's insurgent army, saying he was leaving Rama for Managua to discuss the situation with the president. General Diaz's telegram was as follows:

"Be assured of our patriotism and of General Estrada's honorable character. I am leaving for Managua to settle the country's situation with you directly."

President Madriz also gave out a telegram which he has received from General Estrada in which General Gonzales Casarillo Gomez and other prisoners are reported well.

Madriz Not Liked.
Washington, Jan. 5.—While there has been no indication on the part of this government as to its feeling toward the administration of President Madriz in Nicaragua, it is known considerable dissatisfaction is felt with the new regime.

Certain acts of Madriz such as the appointment of General Toledo as commander in chief of a division of the army, and the appointment of a Russian nihilist named Loatz said to be a notorious adventurer as commander of the port of Corinto, have led the United States to believe nothing in the way of genuine reform or important changes in the interest of the citizens of Nicaragua are to be hoped for through Madriz.

I diplomatic circles here it is believed to be the United States intention to allow General Estrada to force Madriz from his position at the head of the Managua government. This they conclude is the only practical solution of the difficulties that now confront Nicaragua.

Rear Admiral Kimball, now in command of the American vessels on the Pacific coast of Nicaragua, will be placed on the retired list on Jan. 9 on account of age. However, he will be retained in his present position until the trouble in Nicaragua has reached such a stage as will warrant the withdrawal of the American ships.

Card of Thanks.
I take this means of extending to the ladies of the Woodmen Circle and others neighbors and friends for their kindness and assistance during the short illness and recent death of my grand-mother Mrs. Mary McDonald May the richest of blessings be theirs always.

EXHIBITION OF PICTURES TO SECURE SCHOOL FUNDS

WILL BE HELD IN ADA AT THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH.

Proceeds Will Be Used to Purchase Pictures for Walls of Public and Normal Schools.

These pictures, a description of which follows, will be placed on exhibition at the Christian church beginning next Monday evening and are under the auspices of the E. C. S. N. The hours during which time the pictures will be exhibited are from 3 to 5 in the afternoon and from 7 to 10 in the evening. A musical program will be rendered each night and the admission charged will be 10c and 15c.

This exhibition of pictures is one of more than ordinary interest. It consists of carbon photographs and engravings loaned by A. W. Elson & Co. of Boston, Mass. The collection is a large one and contains only the very best reproductions of the masterpieces of art of different countries and periods. Nearly every gallery and country in the world would have to be visited to see the original pictures which are here brought together in one collection.

The collection comprises two hundred subjects representing all the principal schools of arts and including many reproductions of sculpture, architecture and important views from nature. Few collections have ever been brought together which so completely cover the history of art of all times as this. An excellent catalogue has been prepared giving important facts bearing on the artist and their masterpieces. The catalogue will be on sale at the exhibition hall.

No city or town should be indifferent to the culture and refinement of its people. It is part of the school work to inculcate these qualities in the children through what ever means it has at its disposal. The wholesome and refining influence of pictures of the right sort on the school walls is now generally recognized as one of the most valuable means of securing this end.

The funds for purchasing such pictures as well as an opportunity to make a selection from a very large number is secured by means of the exhibition. The larger the attendance the greater the number of pictures that can be secured for the schools.

We hope you will not fail to visit the exhibition, and believe you will be fully repaid for the slight trouble and expense in the pleasure and profit you will gain for yourself besides helping on the work.

GAYNOR'S WIFE A SUFFRAGIST.
Says Self-Supporting Women Should Vote.

New York, Jan. 6.—The wife of the next mayor of New York came out positively today in favor of woman suffrage.

I believe recited Mrs. Gaynor, as she clasped hand with Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont, that every woman who pays taxes, every self-supporting woman and every woman man to represent her, should have the franchise.

Mayor-elect Gaynor though often questioned in the late municipal campaign concerning his view on the subject always waived a positive opinion.

Mrs. Gaynor, Mrs. Belmont and Mrs. Anna Bryce, a sister-in-law of the British ambassador to the United States were guests at a suffrage luncheon given them today by Mrs. Martin W. Littleton.

Mrs. Bryce said she believed the fight for women suffrage in England was nearly won.

New Method to Catch Rabbits.
Enid, Okla., Jan. 6.—A wagon load of rabbits was sold here on the street during the past week as the result of a hunt in Valley Center neighborhood. A wire about a hundred yards long was stretched to the hind end of two wagons, which were then driven across the prairie. Every jack and cottontail in the way of the wire was jumped up as it approached and was shot. In this way 200 animals were secured.

TAFT WANTS RETURN SUPPORT

INSURGENTS MUST BEHAVE OR THEY WILL NOT RECEIVE PLUMS.

ROSEWATER TALKS WITH TAFT

Republican Committeeman From Nebraska Says President Wants Him to Assist in Explaining Attitudes.

Washington, Jan. 5.—While no formal statement was forthcoming at the White House today there was no attempt in administration circles to deny that President Taft is withholding certain customary congressional patronage from those insurgent senators and representatives who show no disposition to support administration measures.

President Taft is reported as taking the attitude that if an obligation rests upon him to give certain patronage to a representative of his party, there is a reciprocal obligation upon the representative to support the president.

Polley Is Wrong.
A number of the so-called insurgents were out in interviews today declaring they hardly agreed with the president's executive program and asserting that, instead of using the whip on them, the president should use it on those leaders who in the past had opposed the Roosevelt policies. "Which Mr. Polley is seeking to enact in a law." On the part of the president, it was said today that the withholding of patronage does not apply to all of the "insurgents" and has absolutely nothing to do with their fight against Speaker Cannon or the house rules stand of President.

Victor Rosewater, republican national committeeman from Nebraska, one of the insurgent states, saw President Taft this afternoon and in an authorized interview said:

The president said to me that he wanted me to help correct the reports that are being circulated to the effect that he is using the patronage club to whip so-called insurgents into line. The president says that there is a well founded custom that has become almost a rule that in making certain appointments such as postmasters, he president should act on recommendation of the members of congress in whose districts the appointments lie. If reported by a member of the same political party.

This obligation resting on the president however is reciprocal. He feels. The republican congressman, he declares, is under a similar obligation to support administration measures recommended by the president to carry out platform pledges on which both were elected. The president says he has not turned down recommendations of insurgents but is simply preserving the status quo to impress them of their obligations.

MANY ARRESTS MADE.
Drunkenness Causes More Than Anything Else.

Washington, Jan. 6.—There are 532 persons out of every 10,000 of the population arrested and lodged in jail each year according to census bureau figures just made public. The figures which are based on an investigation of conditions in the fifteen largest cities of the United States during 1907, show also that 35 per cent of all arrests are made for drunkenness.

The city of Washington leads in proportion of arrests in relation to its population but the lawlessness of a city's population, it rather depicts varying local laws and conditions and also the activity of the police department.

All cities of more than 30,000 population were investigated and grouped according to their size. The results show that the largest city does not have the greatest number of arrests.

E. D. LUMSDEN SUES COMPANY

MUNICIPAL ENGINEER, WELL KNOWN IN ADA, STRIVES TO SECURE $84,850.

WANTS PROFIT ON ADA WORK

Has O'Neil Engineering Company's Property in This State Attached—Claims Corporation
Made Big Money

The following from the Daily Oklahoman will be interesting reading for the people of this city. E. D. Lumsden having contracted a good deal of municipal work here.

E. D. Lumsden, a municipal engineer has instituted one of the largest suits in the district court asking $34,850 from the O'Neil Engineering company, a corporation which has done much municipal work in this state. The plaintiff claims that the amount a due him under contract for his services as manager of the company's work in several cities.

Attachment was issued to seize the defendant's property in the counties of Jefferson, Caddo and Alfalfa.

The petition states that the defendant is a Texas corporation, and that Griffin O'Neil is president. That the firm is engaged in the business of municipal engineers and constructs water works, sewers, light and water systems, etc. That the plaintiff is a municipal engineer and that in August 1907, he entered into an oral contract with Griffin O'Neil that they go together to manage all the water work and to receive one-third of the profits.

The instrument then enumerates certain contracts which he managed estimating the profit made on them. There were two in Ada, two in Coalgate, two in Bufala, two in Checotah, one in each of twelve other towns in Oklahoma, and one in Bunkie, La. and one in Bonham, Tex. The individual amounts of the contracts run up as high as $90,000 and the profit on such a contract is estimated at $35,000.

The plaintiff further alleges that he turned over to the company three private contracts, one in Ada for a concrete dam at $25,000, one in Coalgate for $5,800 and one in Checotah for dams and reservoir for $22,500. He figures the profit on these three to be $11,000.

The petitioner further states that he does not know and has no way of ascertaining the exact amount of the profits as he left the keeping of all books and accounts with the defendant but estimates his one third share as above. Another allegation states that he has received from the company $4,400.

JAP PADDLES $160 WILDS.

Student Travels in Cedar Canoe from Source of Mississippi River.

New Orleans, La., Jan. 6.—Paddling 3160 miles in a cedar canoe, Kiyo S. Inui, a Japanese student, has just completed what is said to have been the first voyage down the Mississippi river from the source at Lake Itasca to New Orleans.

He will depart today for the jetties where he is expected to reach in a short time, thus rounding out his trip to the mouth of the Father of Waters.

Inui, a graduate of the University of Michigan and a Chautauqua lecturer, placed his frail canoe in Lake Itasca on May 20. The boat made in Detroit, was shipped by rail twenty-eight miles from Shevlin, Minn., to the lake.

You Will Be Sorry.

When Ada has grown a thousand more in the next few months as she has in the past few, and property has advanced accordingly, you will be sorry that you didn't buy a few feet of real estate several months previously. This is a friendly warning to all who are able to buy but haven't. See the Otis Weaver Agency Ltd.

A Word of Appreciation

WE THINK THIS AN OPPORTUNE TIME to extend to our Friends and Customers our sincere thanks for their patronage during 1909. The past year has been a successful year for us, the New Year finds us better prepared to serve you. We wish for all, a Happy and Prosperous New Year.

MONEY OUT OF A FAKE.

Holdenville Man to Be Prosecuted on Queer Charge.

Sapulpa, Jan. 6.—William Taylor, Holdenville, is to be prosecuted on the charge that he said he murdered a man when he didn't and incidentally, for having made money out of his story.

Taylor according to the authorities, came to Sapulpa recently and by representing that he was F. C. Carr of Checotah, a person who does not exist, secured sums of money from persons to whom he related a strange narrative.

He said that he killed an Indian Red Bird, it is asserted. The body of the Indian had been found and Taylor, his victims say, expressed a desire to flee from the country. He needed ready cash and offered to turn over his farm for $1000 in cash. Just how much Taylor realized is not known.

After leaving here he went to Tulsa and was arrested while trying to work the same game there according to dispatches received here.

HORSES NOT USED TO FLOOR.

Reason Fire Team Loses Time in Getting Started.

The fire department was called to a residence on East Main near the Katy depot this morning but the fire which caused no damage, was put out before the arrival of the firemen.

Since the fire team has been put in the city hall stable there has been difficulty in getting the horses hitched up and started. This is because they are not accustomed to the cement floor and of course they slip, which causes nervousness. However they are handling their troubles better and in a short time should be able to get in the harness without slipping all over the floor.

SWITCHMEN WILL ARBITRATE THEIR TROUBLES

KNAPP AND NEILL WILL GET IN

If Government Officials Fail to Settle

Trouble Arbitration Board Will Try.

Chicago, Jan. 6.—Members of the switchmen's union, representing the western railroads agreed today with the General Managers association to submit their request for advanced wages and change in hours to arbitration under the Erdman law. The switchmen asked for arbitration.

A telegram was sent to Martin A. Knapp, chairman of the interstate commerce commission, and Charles N. Neill, commissioner of labor, asking them to act as mediators. In case the mediation of the two government officials fails to elect the next step probably will be the naming of an arbitration board to consider the trouble.

Birds Fed by Boys.

Lone Wolf, Okla., Jan. 6.—During the recent blizzard weather, when the snow covered the face of the earth the little birds in the southern part of Kiowa county were fed by country boys with large hearts. The birds have been busy little creatures for some moons and had about eaten all the weed seeds from the farms of southern Kiowa county. The farmer knew that he had no better friend and when the birds grew hungry and their little wings began to flap in the cold they were gathered up and fed by farmers and then turned loose again.

Announcements

For County Treasurer.

J. K. SCROGGINS,
J. W. WESTBROOK.

J. W. WESTBROOK AS CANDIDATE FOR OFFICE OF COUNTY TREASURER

Mr. J. W. Westbrook, when he brought in his announcement as a candidate for the office of County Treasurer, he handed the News man a plain, unvarnished statement of where he came from and how he has spent his life and after looking it over, without making any change, the same is hereunder published.

J. W. Westbrook submits his name to the people of Pontotoc county as a candidate for county treasurer subject to the action of the democratic primaries.

I was born in Mississippi near Aberdeen in the year 1867.

With my parents came to Grayson County, Tex., when only 3 years old.

My father died the first year we came to Texas. Five years later my mother married T. W. Hudson, an ex-Confederate who lost a leg at the battle of Corinth, Miss.

There are a number of Pontotoc county people who are personally acquainted with my step-father, and he is a man I am proud to say gave me all the advantages an own father could give.

I have always been a democrat. My own father went through the entire war and my step-father will carry his misfortune to the grave with him fighting for what we are enjoying. I have lived in Old Grayson county, Texas, all my life until the year 1903 when I came to what was then the Indian Territory, but now Pontotoc county, Oklahoma, settling at New Stonewall having been one among the first residents there. Now, I am making this race on my own record and qualifications. I have had full charge of the books in the county treasurer's office under J. C. Cates' administration and cordially invite any or all voters of the county, if they so desire to investigate same. Now in casting your vote I ask you to compare my position with any one making the race for this office. I have tried hard as deputy county treasurer to give satisfaction and think I have.

I ask you to try me as county treasurer and I will assure you no one will appreciate your vote and will promise you I have in the past and better if I can, and will discharge the duties of this office according to law and strive to all.

Now, if you think me entitled, worthy and qualified for this office please remember me at the primaries.
Hoping to meet every voter before the primaries, I am your humble servant.

J. W. (Jim) WESTBROOK.

MR. J. K. SCROGGINS
AS A CANDIDATE FOR COUNTY TREASURER

Mr. J. K. Scroggins, a farmer of near Francis, announces this week for the office of county treasurer.

He is well known throughout the county, having previously canvassed it for the same office during another campaign.

The personality of Mr. Scroggins as a farmer is such that he constitutes an ideal candidate. He is a plain, straight farmer, with a bearing and a countenance that would convince any one on earth that he was kind in his home, industrious in his field, irreproachably honest and keenly intelligent. He is qualified and will be in the running. A short sketch of the man will be published in next week's issue.

EAST OF HENGLAND.

Alfred East, president of an art society in England is in Chicago handling out a big line of talk about artists, and so forth and so on. His talk may sound all right in Chicago but by the time it gets way down in Oklahoma it sounds mixed up. But perhaps a fine arts student can juggle it.

East says "Americans are the most courageous and the most cowardly people on earth." (An artist couldn't even understand that.) Then he declares American women are splendid and much more interesting than the men. (It doesn't require an Englishman to see that.) But in judging art, both the men and women are cowards, and to become great artists they must receive schooling from artists of the old world.

This last outburst is respectfully referred to the American artists.

A LESSON TO BANKERS.

American bankers are almost all honest men. Their utmost prudence is exercised in behalf of stockholders and depositors. Their judgment is so good that the percentage of loss in our banks is infinitesimal.

Public opinion holds the banker in esteem. He may win favor by being overcautious. He is sure to suffer if he becomes careless and handles funds entrusted to him in "anything but the most conservative manner."

Despite his wealth, Charles W.
Morse could not escape the consequence of reckless methods of finance. Today, behind prison doors, he is a living lesson to the banker who is tempted by the expectation of large profits to depart from safe ground and endanger the interests committed to his care.

MR. J. W. WESTBROOK.

Mr. J. W. Westbrook, whose announcement as a candidate for the office of county treasurer appears in this issue, would be a good citizen in any county on earth, for he is an honest, modest and obliging gentleman and qualified to assume any duties he might undertake to perform.
It is a pleasure to commend him to the careful consideration of the voters of Pontotoc county.

DAINTY CONFECTIONS TO BE MADE AT HOME.

Recipe for the Always Popular Nougat —Orange Straws—Pineapple Creams—Cracker Jack When the Corn is Popped.

One cupful of almonds, chopped and placed in the oven to dry, being careful not to allow them to brown. Put into a saucepan two and a half cupfuls of powdered sugar and a tablespoonful of lemon juice. Place it on the fire and stir with a wooden spoon until it is melted and slightly colored.
Let it stand for a few minutes, so it will be thoroughly melted; then turn in the hot almonds; mix them together quickly, not stirring long enough to grain the sugar, and turn it onto an oiled slab or tin. Spread it out in an even sheet an eighth of an inch thick.
While it is still warm mark it off into squares. Break into pieces when cold.

Orange straws—Save the peel from six oranges, putting them in a large bowl of water, keeping it a week, changing the water daily. This takes all the poison out of the peel and leaves it with a delicious flavor. For the peel of six oranges take one pound of sugar (granulated) and half a cupful of water. Boil until it hairs; then add the orange peel, which has been cut into very thin strips and dried on a clean towel. Stir until the sugar hardens all over the little sticks; then pour over a platter. Pick the mass apart with a silver fork before it hardens.

Pineapple creams—Have ready preserved pineapple cut in small squares, two cups of granulated sugar, half a cup of water. When the sugar is melted and reaches a hard boil (note the time and cook five minutes) remove from the fire and add a teaspoonful of pineapple extract; place in a dish of cold water and beat until cool enough to handle. Coat a cube of pineapple with the fondant and cool.
Have sweet chocolate already melted over steam; never by direct heat, and dip the balls, a few at a time, lifting carefully with a fork; cool upon greased paper. Citron can be used in the same way, substituting orange for the pineapple extract.

Mints—The mints with any desired flavoring, such as peppermint, winter-green, vanilla or lemon, may be made by stirring some of the fondant in a double boiler until it melts; add the flavoring and drop in small lumps on oiled paper. The lump will flatten out before hardening. An almond or half walnut can be placed on top of each if desired.

Cracker Jack—Pop the corn and, after removing all the hard and un-popped kernels, pour into a deep bowl; add some nut kernels; boil until the syrup cracks in cold water. One cupful of molasses, two cupfuls of sugar, one tablespoonful of butter, two tablespoonfuls of vinegar. Take from fire; add half a teaspoonful soda; beat briskly and pour over popped corn and chopped peanuts. This is enough syrup for three quarts of popped corn.

Butter scotch—Two cups white sugar, a cup of water, three-quarters of a teaspoonful of cream of tartar; butter the size of an egg, one teaspoonful lemon extract. Roll all together except the lemon until "crack;" then pour into buttered pans and when nearly cold mark into squares. Dip into melted sweet chocolate and cool upon buttered paper. A cup of chopped nut meats can be added if desired.

Chicken Dinner.

Procure a moderately fat stewing chicken, cut up, and put on to stew in about two quarts of cold water.
Have ready a small bag of cheesecloth and into this put one cup of washed rice. Tie the end with a string and place in the kettle with the chicken.
It will require about one hour to cook chicken and rice tender. Lift out the chicken and rice and have ready the dumplings made in the following way: Three pints of sifted flour, one and one-half teaspoonfuls baking powder, one-half teaspoonful of salt; mix well, then in a hole in the center put one well-beaten egg and one cup of sweet milk. Work together until quite stiff.
Do not roll out, but lift by the spoonful and place in the boiling broth.
Cook ten minutes and after removing these thicken the remaining broth and season with salt, pepper, and butter for gravy.

Baked Liver.

Cut one pound of calves' liver into slices, wash and dry them, lay in a well-buttered dripping tin, mix together in a bowl three large tablespoonfuls of bread crumbs, one teaspoonful of flour, one teaspoonful chopped parsley, a little salt and pepper and a small chopped onion. Cover each slice of liver with these. Place strips of bacon on the top, pour in half a pint of water, bake slowly for one hour.

Cocoa Hint.

When serving cocoa or chocolate drop a marshmallow into each cup before pouring in the hot beverage.
They will come to the top soft and creamy and are a fine substitute for whipped cream.

Clothes Pole.

Made of a broomstick to which six double hooks are fastened lengthwise, three on each side, and a large screw eye in one end to hang up by. Fine where space is limited, as it will hang in a corner.

On the fourth of January,
In the year of Nineteen-Ten,
All the forest wrapped in 'ry, Fleecy-sleet and frozen thin.

On the mountains high and lofty,
In the valley's lowest land, Sleet, freezing, raining softly, Cold winds howl the mistle hand.

O, the wrinkled, icy cycles,
On the boughs and buds so clear, Shining brightly as they cluster, O'er the meadows, woodland drear.

See the cycles as they're swinging,
To and fro on limb and twig;
Forms of diamond points are ringing, Fingers, toes and thumbs as big.

On the house-top, in the gutter, Round the door-step, near the gate; Scenes of frigid zone doth mutter, All is one unbroken plate.

Down the street and up the alley,
On the slide walk all with glass; Skating, sliding all in rally, Fleecy feet are swift to cross.

Now the sleigh bells all are ringing, Cheerful as the month of May,
Ralph and Guy with Ruth and Winnie Coming for a trip on sleigh.

Lo! we hear them as they're singing,
All aboard, the captain cries, Smoothly, swiftly, now their bringing Friends and loved ones on surprise.

WHY SALVES FAIL TO CURE ECZEMA

They Clog the Pores—Only a Liquid Can Reach the Inner Skin.

Since the old-fashioned theory of curing eczema through the blood has been given up by scientists, many different salves have been tried for skin diseases. But it has been found that these salves only clog the pores and can not penetrate to the inner skin below the epidermis where the eczema germs are lodged.

This—the quality of penetrating—probably explains the tremendous success of the only standard liquid eczema cure, oil of wintergreen as compounded in D. D. D. Prescription.
After ten years of cure after cure, the world's leading skin specialists have accepted this as the true eczema cure.

We ourselves do not hesitate to recommend D. D. D. Prescription at $1.00 a bottle, but for the benefit of those who have never tried the prescription we arranged with the D. D. D. laboratories of Chicago for a special large trial bottle at 25 cents on a special offer now. This first bottle ought to convince every sufferer, and, at any rate, it will surely take away the itch at once. 2

A young man fell into a state of coma, but recovered before his friends had buried him. One of them asked what it felt like to be dead.

"Dead?" he exclaimed. "I wasn't dead. And I knew I wasn't, because my feet were cold and I was hungry."

"But how did that make you sure?" "Well, I knew that if I were in heaven I shouldn't be hungry, and if I were in the other place my feet wouldn't be cold."—Cleveland Leader.

Oklahoma has evidently shown Missouri and Indiana the benefits of the state auditing and examining system, until now peculiar to the new state. On January 1 these states put a state examiner and inspector to work under statutes very much like that of this state. The main exception is that the examiners are appointed instead of being elected. Examiner Taylor says that so far as he is able to judge the neighbors have copied the Oklahoma statute pretty well.—State Capital.

MILK TRUST MOSTLY WATER.

Enormous Profits Made by the Dealers of New York.

New York, Jan. 6.—The investigation into the so-called milk trust by a special deputy attorney general, Mr. Coleman, was given added impetus yesterday by a discovery made by Marvyn Scudder, the accountant employed by the state to go over the books of the larger milk companies in the city.

Mr. Scudder said the books of the Borden company showed that more than fifteen million dollars of the twenty million dollars capital stock represented "trade marks and good will, which the accountant said represented nothing tangible in the way of assets. On the company's capitalization a dividend of 6 per cent was paid on the preferred and 10 per cent paid on the common stock.

Surplus of Nearly Nine Millions.

Mr. Scudder said the books showed a surplus of $8,824,230 made in ten years and Mr. Coleman is preparing to ask the company, if such profits are possible with milk at eight cents a quart, what justification was there in raising the price to nine cents a quart.

Mr. Scudder further showed that of the Sheffield Farms company's capitalization of one-half million dollars, more than $30,000 was for "good will, etc." The Sheffield company paid 15 per cent dividends last year, and to date this year 22 per cent, on its stock, and its surplus was $262,672, nearly double the capital stock.

Enormous profits were shown to have been made by the Alexander Campbell Milk company, at eight cents a quart.

The Borden company, which controls 23 per cent of the fluid milk trade of the city, and the Sheffield Farms company have employed counsel to fight the inquiry.

The Campbell company supplies more than one million bottles of milk every month to Brooklyn families, and Mr. Scudder showed that the net profits of the company for the six months ending last June were $49,880, or at the rate of 26 per cent on the company's capital.

With the purpose of refuting the assertion that the companies lost money selling milk at eight cents a quart, Mr. Scudder submitted figures from the books of the Borden company showing that in the nine months of this year, ending September 30 last, the company made a clear profit of $1,076,772. This sum exceeds by $322,947 the net profits in the same branch of the business in the corresponding months of 1908.

Mr. Scudder showed that the net profits of the Sheffield company were greatly in excess in 1909 over 1908.

ROSEBUD'S ROMANCE

"Good maw'nin', ma'am," said the ebony-bred personage in response to whose knock Mrs. Murray had opened the back door. "I'm the lady what Miss Johnson sent."

"Mrs. Johnson?" queried Mrs. Murray vaguely. "I don't think I know her."

"Oh, yas'm, you do," asserted the ebony-bred one kindly, but firmly. "She's the lady what washes for you. She jest natchally couldn't come this week, because why she's sick abed on her back with the miz'ry in her left year. It's fierce."

Mrs. Murray eyed the substitute laundress rather dubiously. "Well," she said finally, "you may go down to the laundry and sort the clothes and by that time I can give you your breakfast. What is your name?"

The substitute shuffled inside the door and began to remove a hat about the size of a barrel.

"Yas'm my name's Miz White. Miz Isabella Arabella Rosebud White. Yas'm I'm Miz White. My husband's daid, so I'm a widow lady."

"Indeed?" ejaculated Mrs. Murray. "Yas'm," continued Miz White. "That's a true fac'. He's daid now. It's only been a recent occasion that he died on Yas'm, only quite a recent occasion."

"Indeed?" said Mrs. Murray again, rather feebly. "I'm sorry to hear it."

"Law," responded Mrs. White cheerfully. "I wuzn't sorry. I wuz powerful glad. It was a shore 'nuff release. I wuz mighty glad to git shot of him. You see, I done been a shore widow for some consid'able time and if ever a pusion was glad to be a real shore 'nuff widow, I wuz it."

"So you were divorced, then?" inquired Mrs. Murray.

"Yas'm, I was divorced some time previously to Mr. White's bein' removed. You see, I wasn't able to git no divorce right immediately preceedin' after me and Mr. White was separated on account of me not havin' no money to pay for it, so I just had to wait until a gentleman friend of mine he says he'd help me and he got me one real cheap."

"I was mighty glad to be single again. That husband of mine he shore was the limit. He couldn't stand it, for me to have no money no more'n nothin'. Ev'ry time I come home with maybe a dollar or two dollars or fifty cents or two bits, that'd set him tryin' to get it out of me. He wasn't nothin' but no 'count, anyway. Never did have no raisin'. Such performances like those wasn't reasonable and I jest natchally got sick and tired of it, so I packed up one night and lef' him."

"I think it served him right," said Mrs. Murray sympathetically.

"Yas'm, I was tired of supportin' an indignant husband, so I just up and quit."

"But what made him indignant if you supported him?" queried Mrs. Murray.

"That was jest what made him indignant, yas'm," explained Rosebud kindly. "You see, once I heard a lady talkin' about women that supported indignant husbands and I asked her what she meant. I had raisin', but I never had no education not to speak of, so I didn't mind askin', and she says, that lady she told me, it was husbands that was too lazy to work and didn't support their families. The minute she spoke the word I knowed that was what I was doin'."

"So when I got home that night I just told Mr. White he had to get out and do sumpin'. And he done it, yas'm. He was right mad, but he wasn't indignant for quite a spell after that. He got a job janitin' in a office and I never had to give him a cent for two weeks. Then he quit. No'm, he never worked no more after that. He was too delicate, he said, so I jest packed up one night and went away and never went back no more."

She paused at the top of the basement stairs with her hand on the door knob.

"If it's just as convenient to you, I'd like mighty well to git away at four o'clock this afternoon," she said. "You see, I got to git home in time to dress for the weddin'."

"If you want to go to a wedding I think we can manage it," said Mrs. Murray. "Are some of your friends to be married?"

"Yas'm, I reckon so. Me and the gentleman friend what got me the divorce is goin' to git married. We been waitin' until Mr. White was deceased. I was scared to marry nobody else when he was livin'. Seems like I might git mixed up, havin' two husbands."

"I should think you would hesitate about marryin' again since your first experience was so unfortunate. May be you won't do any better another time," said Mrs. Murray, pessimistically.

A dazzling smile spread over the features of the substitute laundress. "No'm," she said, as she began to clamber down the stairs, "I ain't calculatin' to do what you might call much better. But I couldn't do no worse."

Good Evidence.

"Why do you call him a dashing young man?"

"As he went out of our front gate last night I heard him say 'the dog'."

Old Man Cooper's Secret Treasure

"Oh, for a square meal!" Joseph Batchford tightened his belt another hole. The hungry man became conscious that he was being followed, and turned to confront a wizened old man.

"Do you wish to speak to me, sir?" "You look hungry," said the old man. "Perhaps a steak and potatoes," suggested the old man. "Your voice is like his, and your laugh—"

"All right, Epicurus," said Joe, "I'm certainly agreeable, but whose voice and laugh is like mine? I thought I was too hungry to have a recognizable voice and my laugh must be sadly warped."

The old man said little more, but watched with apparent rapture Joseph's feat of placing within him two big steaks. Then said the old man: "Would you mind telling me something about yourself?"

"Sure," said Joe, "it's easy enough. Sister and I were left orphans years ago. An old lady took charge of Mamie. I went to Australia, cleared up about $25,000, got homesick. The ship was wrecked, and my pile is somewhere on the bottom of the Pacific. I landed broke, can't find any trace of Mamie—and, so there you are."

"You are the person I want," said the old man. "You can make another $25,000 to-night in half an hour. My name is Carleton Crane. I am confidential man for Cornelius Cooper. He is dying. All that keeps him alive is that he doesn't want to die until he has revealed a secret five years ago he quarreled with his son, Tristan. The latter had married against his father's wishes."

"During the travels of Cornelius Cooper, my employer, he obtained information of a hidden treasure. He found it—a marvelous collection of jewels. I saw them when he returned. Where he has hidden them no one knows but himself. He has forgiven Tristan, but Tristan has disappeared. If the old man dies before Tristan turns up, the secret dies with him. Your voice and laugh are very like Tristan Cooper's."

Joe Batchford looked at the old man, comprehending.

"It is I who should ask forgiveness, father."

The sightless eyes of Cornelius Cooper were turned on Joseph Batchford. "You are not my son, instinct tells me," he said. "This is a scheme of old Crane."

"You're right," said Joe, "the fact is, I'm in hard lines, but if I succeeded in getting that secret treasure of yours I intended to give the old schemer the go-by, look up your son, and I know he would make it right. I'm honest, just in hard luck, that's all."

The old man for some time remained in thought. "Somehow, I believe you," he said. "Your voice has an honest ring, it is much like the voice of Tristan. Far better, at any rate, for you to know the secret than that old ingrate. Look under the mattress, take that envelope, it directs you to where I have hidden the jewels—try and find Tristan—he a good, honest boy—it is always better—and—"

The old man's voice sunk his head turned over on the pillow, and he had gone to the bourne beyond.

Outside Carleton Crane awaited. "Have you got it?" he asked, feverishly.

"You bet," said Joseph Batchford, "and I'm going to keep it. It's a secret," and he left Carleton Crane standing dumfounded.

The envelope contained these instructions: "Tendril house, cellar known as Monk's fourth flagstone to right. Open Ladder 15 feet. Passage. End of passage iron door, spring lock. Go down 15 feet. Iron chest. Low tide dry, high tide full."

Batchford went at low tide. The hidden gems were his. He advertised for the whereabouts of Tristan Cooper. It was long before he received any tidings, but one day a man announced himself. "I am Tristan Cooper, for long I have been isolated, confined to bed, under the care of my wife, in a remote mining camp. I heard of your advertisement by accident. Why have you sought my whereabouts?"

Batchford told him the story in full. "I promised your father I would do all possible to find you."

"You must share with me," Batchford, said Cooper, "and, another thing. Your name—Batchford—the woman who nursed me back to life, her name was Batchford, Mamie Batchford. Did you ever know of one such?"

"Did I?" shouted Joe. "Why, man, where is she?"

"Right here," responded a voice from the doorway. "Oh, Joe, I thought I had lost you forever."

As the two stood in rapturous embrace, Tristan looked at them, tears in his eyes. "This has certainly been a lucky strike for all of us—but I wish poor dad was here to share in the happiness," he said.

Powerful Explosive.

A new explosive of British invention, which is said to possess possibilities of revolutionizing the blasting work in connection with the construction of the Panama canal, has been tested on the Isthmus of Panama recently, and as a result the canal commission has ordered 20 tons of it for trial.

Mail Carrier Sentenced.

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 6.—Wm. Criger, accused of offering $50 to General John C. Black, head of the United States Civil Commission, for an appointment, as rural mail-carrier, yesterday pleaded guilty and the penalty of $50 fine and costs and a day in jail was imposed. Criger had taken the examination and claims he had been told the quickest way to get the appointment was to buy it from the commissioners.

banking laws.
nunciated tailored garments gave way
the Berman expert, the prison pho-
barber.

newspaper men were trained upon
him. He was placed in a cab and
driven to the prison.
rency. He was assigned to "class 1,"
confinement.

Most probably will be assigned to
the tailor shop.
Mrs. Morse formerly the wife of
an Atlanta hotel proprietor is expected from New York tomorrow. Af-
gin trying to secure a pardon from President Taft.

Riverside Suffering.

was completely cut off from communication with the outside world
table gardens are inundated.

HON. JAMES R. YOUNG.
Ada Postmaster for Ten Years Volun-
Boosevelt Only Republicans in History That Ever Vol-
untarily Let Go.

Hon James R. Young for ten years he efficient and acceptable postmas-
the postmastership.
encombrancy of the Ada postoffice, that here has never been an instance

appointee.
Mr Young deserves the rest which
substantial residence properties in his city and a 280 acre farm close by,

the city, has sense and tact, and he really looks as if the two eminent,
Bitty Taft somewhat worried before

Republican.
to which he aspires.
Mr. Beard is an Ada pioneer, be-
townsite. He has been a town build-

than is difficult for a democrat to esimate the party influence of any re-

Oklahoma but it is known that Mr
advocate of the principles of his party and an ardent supporter of its candidate and representatives.

sociated with Mr. Beard in the real-
wise the News man's personal friend,
democrat.

Halls Resolution.

ernment investigation of the increased cost of living in the United States,
ing inquiry.

and the work will be done thorough-
to assist.

saulting Operator.

Dallas, Tex, Jan 5—B. F. Carter,
Dan Todd, A. Yocum and Charles Warner, all M & T freight train men, were arrested here today on ad-
the men enticed Brady Lee, night dis-

Says Appropriations Could Be Re-
with His Salary.

Washington, Jan 4.—Had the President's daughter and son, Miss Helen
they would have heard their father
Adair of Indiana for alleged extravagance of the Executive Department.
Mr Adair said the President's salary
$75,000 a year, adding that a President with practically no expense who
any judgment does not have sufficient

houses would furnish the President
use.

properly belong to the White House,
at least $75,000 per year.

Mr Adair declared that appropriations for all purposes could be re-
ernment service.

ing ground for those who had ren-
wasted.

partment of our Government, said Mr
tenance of its army and navy, and
that too in time of peace.

dahl, Dr. Frederick A. Cook's secretary announced today he had re-

cision which he was convinced Dr.
Cook is still ignorant.

A girl nineteen years of age Lillie Beck by name, drove away two burglars who were attempting to rob the restaurant at which she worked in Chicago. And the young lady, did this alone and unarmed.

Miss Beck was night cashier at the place. The burglars forced a window in the basement and although there were several girl waiters in the restaurant the cashier was the only one who had sufficient courage to descend to the basement. When she reached the foot of the stairs she saw two men grabbing everything of value in sight. She calmly asked them what they were doing and advised them if they valued their lives they had better get out. The robbers followed her advice and left via the route they entered. Then Miss Beck trembled with fear—after it was all over.

This instance demonstrates that a woman with such presence of mind as this cashier displayed is the most formidable opponent a burglar can have. Had she been armed she probably would not have accomplished her purpose. The chances are she would have shot herself. Or again she would never have entered the basement with a weapon. Let her shake after she has successfully played her bluff—her presence of mind at the time it was needed is what counted.

FARMER BOYS CONTEST

The farmer boys of Oklahoma are receiving a great deal of encouragement from the state board of agriculture and Supt. Bentley's report shows that the boys are taking advantage of the situation.

The competition between boys in the raising of corn is one of the favored projects of the board and not only is the state board taking notice of the rivalry, but the federal department is also. The seed corn for the boys' competition was fur-
given instructions by members of the agriculture college faculty.

The report just issued by the board shows most of the yields to be from 40 to 60 bushels per acre. The report continues:

Boys' corn growing clubs were organized last winter in many counties and the State Board of Agriculture sent free 4 pounds of seed corn to each of fourteen boys in at least sixty of the counties of the state.

"It is interesting to know that a great many of these boys made a great success of their work, a number of them have won prizes at the various corn shows and fairs that have been held. And in acre yield and net profits many of these boys have caused their fathers and neighbors to take notice."

"Taking into consideration the unfavorable corn weather of the past season and that the average yield of corn in Oklahoma for 1909 is only 14.4 bushels per acre, the yields reported by many of these boys is something to be proud of."

The Republican newspaper men who gathered at Shawnee last Monday and declared for a Republican convention for the nomination of republican candidates evidently forgot that they were in a state where compulsory primary elections obtain.

If you've staid on this long it ought to be easy for you the rest of the year.

It is now said that Halley's comet hasn't a tail.

Don't fall off.

TALK OF THE DAY.

if carried to a successful issue, will enrich the Musée d'Armée in Paris
exchange with the institution at Glasgow some exhibit, and in return to receive the purse of Marshal Ney.
the marchale for her famous hus-
the hostilities of 1815. Madeleine Mo-lin, the marchale's maid, was deputed after the execution to perform the
the possession of an official at Glasgow, and he presented it to the local

every seaport in the United States
save New York alone in the total val-
docks," said Thomas W. Aikin of the

Ada people testify to this.

W. F. Jones, 11 Eleventh St., Ada, Okla., says: "It is over a year and a half since I procured Doan's Kidney pills at G. M. Ramsey's Drug Store and through their use received a cure from a severe case of kidney complaint. There was a 'dull ache' through my loins and too frequent passage of the kidney secretions caused me great annoyance. I tried a number of remedies, but received only temporary relief until I used Doan's Kidney Pills. I have no occasion to take a kidney medicine since then, as the cure Doan's Kidney Pills effected has proven to be a permanent one."

MENT OFFICER.

All Prosecutions Will Have to Be
Caldwell Would Have State

well, State Enforcement Attorney,
in brief requires the interstate
ments coming to Oklahoma, it is de-
tend has been the source of considerable trouble.

torney Caldwell to Gov. Haskell,
vinous, malt, fermented or intoxicating liquor of any kind which is to be-
same in other words, not only all
C. O. D. shipments strictly so called,
two prohibition states by the ship-
ery of the shipment of liquor.

when it collects the draft and deliv-
liquor for the purpose of complet-
prohibition of the statute. The pen-

Attorney Caldwell states that all
ishes officers who know of such violations of the law to report them to the United States District Attorney, and to the State Enforcement Department. The value of the new law to
well as follows:

only necessary to prove two things,
and an intention of violating any provision of the statute. When these two
of the defendant is established absolutely. Now, under his act of con-
the shipments were not plainly marked as to the nature or quantity of

use. In addition to this, if the de-
dealers, then a certified copy of record from the office of the Internal
intent.

cept, possibly the border counties.
and delivery of liquor shipments.

Statehouse.

Guthrie, Ok., Jan. 4.—When Gov.
sion will be called for Jan. 20.

collect, and further limiting the issue of county, district and city bonds.

linquent if not paid by Jan. 1 following.

vision of the taxing system believe the session should be called in time
to be beyond the needs of a dis-
stood such a course will be recommended by the governor.

fees and costs in misdemeanor cases,

the township form of government.

sum asked.

Strain of Nowata, Smith of Duncan,
Checotah.

Rare Bargain.

Had a Bunch of Greenbacks Big Enough to Choke a Cow When He Arrived Here.

A railroad switchman employed by the Frisco at Francis was taken in charge by an officer as he alighted from a train here this morning and questioned about a board bill he was alleged to have skipped at that place. The Francis officers telephoned the local sheriff's office this morning that the fellow left town without settling for his rations and the hotel proprietor saw—in his mind—the board bill running away with the railroad. A description was given the local officers and a man was sent to the depot to welcome the switchman.

When told that he was wanted for an unpaid hotel bill of $11.50, he promptly paid that amount to the deputy. He had such a huge roll of the long green in his pocket that it required several seconds to get the spondulix out. What have been more than two hundred dollars in that pants pocket, and that wasn't all he had—so he said—as the St. L. & S. F. railroad company was indebted to him to the tune of $120.

After he settled his feed bill he stated he had no intention of "beating" or trying to beat it. Said he needed some heavier raiment for this sort of weather and saw no particular offense in coming to Ada to get it. He departed then, saying he was going back to Francis to resume work. He didn't say, however, whether he was going to live at the same hotel.

THE CITY COUSIN

"I don't know about the trials of city relatives with visiting country cousins," said Aunt Mary, thoughtfully. "Still, I am tired of reading continually about the annoying guest from the country. Some day I shall tell my experience with a city guest."

Her caller laughed. "Aunt Mary," she said, "you will never have a more appreciative listener than I would be at the present moment."

"Well, I think I shall tell you about it, my dear Cousin Annie, who was brought up on the next farm to me, was my dearest girl friend. She married a Chicago man and for a few years we visited back and forth quite regularly. Then troubles came in both families and we couldn't get away at all."

"Annie's husband made a great deal of money. I think it did not change Annie a bit, for occasionally I would get warm, confidential letters from her. But, you see, different circumstances must make a difference with the children. Her girls were educated at fashionable schools and abroad, while the country high school sufficed for mine."

"When my last and youngest married and went to the Pacific coast to live, I was so lonesome that I sat down and wrote Annie a long, blue letter. It wasn't a week before she answered, offering me her youngest for a visit. She said that none of her children had ever seen the old neighborhood in which she had grown up, and that Eunice was the only one to send and that if I wanted her she would come and try to take my girl's place for a few weeks."

"If I wanted her? I had never wanted a girl so much in my life!" Eunice was a dear girl, she really was. But a wealthy city and a prosperous farming community are far apart.

"I had sent the hired man down with the 'democrat' wagon to get her trunk but he had to make three trips before he got all her luggage. I was charmed when she stepped off the train—she was so fresh and dainty that I fell in love with her on the spot."

"I had invited all the young people of the neighborhood in for supper that evening so that Eunice could get acquainted at once. I told her about five o'clock that she would better get ready for them, as boys and girls would arrive at six."

"All the guests were in the sitting room when she opened the door, and, my dear, she was a picture! I discovered afterward that she had on her simplest house gown, although it seemed very elaborate to us. Her arms and neck were bare—I think none of us had ever seen a woman dressed so before outside of pictures in novels. She carried her train like a queen."

"There must be something in what she calls 'poise,' for doubtless she was as dumfounded at their appearance as they were at hers. Some of the girls wore dimity gowns, but most of them had on white waists embroidered after some newspaper pattern and their best skirts. They were breathless with astonishment, but she never wavered for a moment."

"It wasn't such an impossible evening as I had thought it might be, for she made herself very agreeable. I think the girls all envied her and the boys were half in love with her. I loved her myself when she kissed me good night and said:

"The next day the minister and his wife called. We haven't imbibed many religious fads here, although I'm not so set as some. But the old orthodox faith seemed new to Eunice. She told the minister she didn't know that any one now believed the things he did and that she was inclined to Buddhism herself. She did so love mysticism! I know the poor man is praying for her nightly!"

"He invited us to the cemetery as 'social' supper the next night. Eunice was convulsed. It hadn't seemed queer to us to meet once a month for a picnic supper and dance to talk over affairs of our cemetery, but it did to the city girl. The square dances tickled her nearly to death—she had never seen any before. All the women were busy getting the pattern of her simple morning dress fixed in their minds, while the boys were afraid to ask her to dance, except John, who didn't seem to see any one else in the room. I am fond of him, so I didn't like it."

"When she was ready for bed I went in and had a talk with her, just as I used to do with my own girls. She seemed really annoyed when I told her my suspicions about John. She threw her arms about me and laughed and cried a bit."

"Dear Cousin Mary," he said, "what a trial I must be to you! Now, you are the most genuine woman I know, except mother, and I know you will understand me when I say that I am going home to-morrow. I think we ought not to try to stay where we make it uncomfortable!"

"She went away as sweet as when she came."

Her Pleasant Evening

"You won't be lonesome," said Mrs. Rammerslee as she bade her husband good-by, "for your Aunt Sally is coming into town for a day's shopping, and will pass the night at our house. I wrote her that we'd take her to the theater to-night and then when mother sent for me to go up to the country, so suddenly it all went out of my mind. But you must take her, Chester."

"All right, May," answered Rammerslee good naturedly. He was fond of his Aunt Sally, who was just his own age and did not look a day older than his pretty young wife."

She was unusually blooming that night when she arrived and Rammerslee said to himself that he had never realized what a handsome girl she was."

There was an impressive rustle of silk when Sally appeared in the hall after dinner in a delicate opera wrap. He helped her into the taxicab in the gay humor a man is apt to feel when he has a congenial, pretty and well-dressed woman by his side."

This pleasant feeling vanished for a moment as he and Sally walked down the aisle of the theater and he heard in the clear undertone of the familiar voice of one of the men in his office."

"I wonder where Rammerslee got that baby doll?"

He was tempted to stop and crush the fellow with an introduction to his aunt, but Sally was sweeping onward behind the hurrying usher, so, swallowing his wrath, he sedately followed. When they took their seats and the embroidered cloak fell from Sally's shoulders Rammerslee felt a thrill of mingled astonishment and admiration as he beheld her white neck gleaming above the glittering folds of a bespangled décolleté evening gown."

Rammerslee noted with discomfort that two or three pairs of opera glasses were turned toward his companion. His nerves were not quieted by the discovery that the owners were men of his acquaintance."

"You are glaring like a lion," remarked Sally. "Why are you so fierce, Chester?"

"I was just thinking that everybody who knows me knows that my wife is a pronounced blonde," he replied.

"I don't see why that should cause you to look as if you wanted to eat somebody," said Sally with a laugh that set the dark ringlets around her face dancing bewitchingly."

Coming out of the theater Sally said: "The play was delightful, Chester. I don't know when I have enjoyed an evening so much."

Feeling a sudden pang of conscience at the unkindness of his thoughts, Rammerslee remarked: "Well, the evening isn't over yet. I'm going to take you to supper at Martin's."

As they walked the short distance to the restaurant Sally talked so vivaciously of family affairs that Rammerslee forgot his annoyance and he received the welcoming bows and knowing smiles of the head waiter with a somewhat pleasantly flattered feeling of importance. He followed the waiter into the rather dimly lighted rear room of the cafe and seated Sally at the table to which he led them and which was secluded behind a group of palms. Then as the head waiter assisted him to remove his overcoat he became conscious that the man had something to communicate to him."

"Excuse me for mentioning it, Mr. Rammerslee," whispered the head waiter deferentially, "but Mrs. Rammerslee's brother and his wife are down in the front and I thought may be you'd rather sit back here."

"You're a wonder," said Rammerslee in an indescribable tone and something slipped from his hand into the head waiter's."

"You have given me a lovely time," said Sally, when they reached home. "Thank you so much, Chester. And, Chester, did you think I looked—nice?" she asked, a little shyly.

"Nice? You are simply stunning." "You see May wrote me to come in to town and get some pretty clothes and have a good time. She rather intimated that you feared I was getting old maidish. So I decided to try to brighten myself up a bit. So you really think I was successful?"

"Well, rather! I tell you what, Sally, May's coming home in the morning and you've got to stay over and come to my office with her and I'll take you both to lunch at my club. We'll show them."

"Show them what?" "Never mind. Run on to bed or you'll lose those roses in your cheeks. You may look just as pretty to-morrow as you can and I won't care—I won't care a bit."

So Unreasonable. "Yes," she snapped, viciously, "you said if I would elope and marry you we would fly to a land of milk and honey, and live on the fat of the land. We have been here a month, and where is the milk, and where is the honey? Not even a pound of salt pork!"

"Well," he replied, meekly, "use your eyes. There isn't a place on this estate to keep a cow, and as for bees, there isn't a man in town willing to let me have a flock for their keep. As for pork, no one can keep a pig with out a cow, so there we are."

Negotiations are in progress which
if carried to a successful issue, will enrich the Musée de l'Armée in Paris
It is a little piece of the kind in
the hostilities of 1815 Madeleine Mo-lin, the marchale's maid, was deputed
the possession of an official at Glas-

Beck by name, drove away two burg-

woman with such presence of mind as this cashier displayed is the most
shame after she has successfully
what counted

ment from the state board of agri-
shows that the boys are taking ad-
vored projects of the board and not
port continues
"Boys' corn growing clubs were organized last winter in many counties
have been held And an acre yield
have caused their fathers and neigh-

year.

It is now said that Halley's comet
hasn't a tail.

THE ADAMANT

MENT OFFICER.

All Prosecutions Will Have to Be
Caldwell Would Have State

well, State Enforcement Attorney,
ments coming to Oklahoma, it is de-
shipment of John Doe's packages

torney Caldwell to Gov. Haskell,
same In other words, not only all
C. O. D. shipments strictly so called,
interstate carrier and receives deliv-

such bank or other collecting agency
when it collects the draft and deliv-
liquor for the purpose of complet-
a heavy penalty for the sake of acting as a collecting agency of foreign

the United States District Attorney,
well as follows:

only necessary to prove two things,
and an intention of violating a pro-
of the defendant is established abso-

intent

cept, possibly the border counties

REVISION OF TAX AND FEE SYSTEMS SLATED

Statehouse.

Guthrie, Ok., Jan. 4—When Gov.
sion will be called for Jan. 20
bonds.
linquent if not paid by Jan. 1 following
vision of the taxing system be-
to be beyond the needs of a dis-
stood such a course will be recommended by the governor.
With this question comes the idea
more than thirty days before coming subject to penalty Suggestion as to Fees.
exhausted Dec. 31 The last legislature only allowed $2,000 for both
sum asked
Among the callers today were
Strain of Nowata, Smith of Duncan
Checotah

MISSION FROM HOTEL.

Had a Bill of Greenbacks Big Enough to Choke a Cow When He Arrived Here..

A railroad switchman employed by the Frisco at Francis was taken in charge by an officer as he alighted from a train here this morning and questioned about a board bill he was alleged to have skipped at that place. The Francis officers telephoned the local sheriff's office this morning that the fellow left town without settling for his rations and the hotel proprietor saw—in his mind—the board bill running away with the railroader. A description was given the local officers and a man was sent to the depot to welcome the switchman.

When told that he was wanted for an unpaid hotel bill of $12.50, he promptly paid that amount to the deputy. He had such a huge roll of the long green in his pocket that it required several seconds to get the spondulix out. Must have been more than two hundred dollars in that pants pocket, and that wasn't all he had—so he said—as the St. L. & S. F. railroad company was indebted to him to the tune of $120.

After he settled his feed bill he stated he had no intention of "beating" or trying to beat it. Said he needed some heavier raiment for this sort of weather and saw no particular offense in coming to Ada to get it. He departed then, saying he was going back to Francis to resume work. He didn't say, however, whether he was going to live at the same hotel.

Eleven couples were married by the judge at $3 per, making $33 for ceremonies performed, and a total of $223 derived from the marriage license in the last three months. There have been 651 licenses issued to date since statehood.

"I don't know about the trials of city relatives as she bade her husband good-bye," said Aunt Mary, thoughtfully. "Still, I am tired of reading continually about the annoying guest from the country. Some day I shall tell my experience with a city guest."

"Well, I think I shall tell you about it, my dear Cousin Annie, who was brought up on the next farm to me, was my dearest girl friend. She married a Chicago man and for a few years we visited back and forth quite regularly. Then troubles came in both families and we couldn't get away at all."

"Annie's husband made a great deal of money. I think it did not change Annie a bit, for occasionally I would get warm, confidential letters from her. But, you see, different circumstances must make a difference with the children. Her girls were educated at fashionable schools and abroad, while the country high school sufficed for mine."

"When my last and youngest married and went to the Pacific coast to live, I was so lonesome that I sat down and wrote Annie a long, blue letter. It wasn't a week before she answered, offering me her youngest for a visit. She said that none of her children had ever seen the old neighborhood in which she had grown up, and that Annie was the only one to send and that if I wanted her she would come and try to take my girl's place for a few weeks."

"If I wanted her? I had never wanted a girl so much in my life!" "Eunice was a dear girl, she really was. But a wealthy city and a prosperous farming community are far apart."

"I had sent the hired man down with the 'democrat' wagon to get her trunk but he had to make three trips before he got all her luggage. I was charmed when she stepped off the train—she was so fresh and dainty that I fell in love with her on the spot."

"I had invited all the young people of the neighborhood in for supper that evening so that Eunice could get acquainted at once. I told her about five o'clock that she would better get ready for them, as boys and girls would arrive at six."

"All the guests were in the sitting room when she opened the door, and, my dear, she was a picture! I dis covered afterward that she had on her simplest house gown, although it seemed very elaborate to us. Her arms and neck were bare—I think none of us had ever seen a woman dressed so before outside of pictures in novels. She carried her train like a queen."

"There must be something in what she calls 'poise,' for doubtless she was as dumfounded at their appearance as they were at hers. Some of the girls wore dimity gowns, but most of them had on white waists embroidered after some newspaper pattern and their best skirts. They were breathless with astonishment, but she never wavered for a moment."

"It wasn't such an impossible evening as I had thought it might be, for she made herself very agreeable. I think the girls all envied her and the boys were half in love with her. I loved her myself when she kissed me good night and said."

"The next day the minister and his wife called. We haven't imbibed many religious fads here, although I'm not so set as some. But the old orthodox faith seemed new to Eunice. She told the minister she didn't know that any one now believed the things he did and that she was inclined to Buddhism herself. She did so love mysticism! I know the poor man is praying for her nightly."

"He invited us to the Cemetery as association supper the next night. Eunice was convulsed. It hadn't seemed queer to us to meet once a month for a picnic supper and dance to talk over affairs of our cemetery, but it did to the city girl. The square dances tickled her nearly to death—she had never seen any before. All the women were busy getting the pattern of her simple morning dress fixed in their minds, while the boys were afraid to ask her to dance, except John, who didn't seem to see any one else in the room. I am fond of him, so I didn't like it."

"Dear Cousin Mary," he said, "what a trial I must be to you! Now, you are the most genuine woman I know, except mother, and I know you will understand me when I say that I am going home to-morrow. I think we ought not to try to stay where we make it uncomfortable."

"She went away as sweet as when she came."

"You won't be lonesome," said Mrs. Rammerlee as she bade her husband good-bye, "for your Aunt Sally is coming into town for a day's shopping, and will pass the night at our house. I wrote her that we'd take her to the theater to-night and then when mother sent for me to go up to the country so suddenly it all went out of my mind. But you must take her, Chester."

"All right, May," answered Rammerlee good naturedly. He was fond of his Aunt Sally, who was just his own age and did not look a day older than his pretty young wife.

She was unusually blooming that night when she arrived and Rammerlee said to himself that he had never realized what a handsome girl she was.

There was an impressive rustle of silk when Sally appeared in the hall after dinner in a delicate opera wrap. He helped her into the taxicab in the gay humor a man is apt to feel when he has a congenial, pretty and well-dressed woman by his side.

This pleasant feeling vanished for a moment as he and Sally walked down the aisle of the theater and he heard in the clear undertone of the familiar voice of one of the men in his office.

"I wonder where Rammerlee got that baby doll?"

He was tempted to stoop and crush the fellow with an introduction to his aunt, but Sally was sweeping onward behind the hurrying usher, so, swallowing his wrath, he sedately followed. When they took their seats and the embroidered cloak fell from Sally's shoulders Rammerlee felt a thrill of mingled astonishment and admiration as he beheld her white neck gleaming above the glittering folds of a bespangled decollete evening gown.

Rammerlee noted with discomfort that two or three pairs of opera glasses were turned toward his companion. His nerves were not quelled by the discovery that the owners were men of his acquaintance.

"I was just thinking that everybody who knows me knows that my wife is a pronounced blonde," he replied.

"I don't see why that should cause you to look as if you wanted to eat somebody," said Sally with a laugh that set the dark ringlets around her face dancing bewitchingly.

Feeling a sudden pang of conscience at the unkindness of his thoughts, Rammerlee remarked, "Well, the evening isn't over yet. I'm going to take you to supper at Martin's."

As they walked the short distance to the restaurant Sally talked so vivaciously of family affairs that Rammerlee forgot his annoyance and he received the welcoming bows and knowing smiles of the head waiter with a somewhat pleasantly flattered feeling of importance. He followed the waiter into the rather dimly lighted rear room of the cafe and seated Sally at the table to which he led them and which was secluded behind a group of palms. Then as the head waiter assisted him to remove his overcoat he became conscious that the man had something to communicate to him.

"Excuse me for mentioning it, Mr. Rammerlee," whispered the head waiter deferentially, "but Mrs. Rammerlee's brother and his wife are down in the front and I thought may be you'd rather sit back here."

"You're a wonder," said Rammerlee in an indescribable tone and something slipped from his hand into the head waiter's.

"You have given me a lovely time," said Sally, when they reached home. "Thank you so much, Chester. And, Chester, did you think I looked—nice?" she asked a little shyly.

"Nice? You are simply stunning," "You see May wrote me to come in town and get some pretty clothes and have a good time. She rather intimated that you feared I was getting old maidish. So I decided to try to brighten myself up a bit. So you really think I was successful?"

"Well, rather! I tell you what, Sally. May's coming home in the morning and you've got to stay over and come to my office with her and I'll take you both to lunch at my club. We'll show them."

"Well," he replied, meekly, "use your eyes. There isn't a place on this estate to keep a cow, and as for bees, there isn't a man in town willing to let me have a flock for their keep. As for pork, no one can keep a pig with out a cow, so there we are."
